

For: Interstate Distributor Co.
Contact: Renee Trueblood, Senior Vice President
Human Resources & Corporate Counsel
253-538-4267; rtrueblood@intd.com

For immediate release:

INTERSTATE DISTRIBUTOR CO. UPDATES TRACTOR FLEET

July 13, 2011 – Interstate Distributor Co. (IDC), the 12th largest U.S. truckload carrier, and McCoy Freightliner announced they have entered into a multi-year agreement to replace IDC’s fleet of older tractors with 1,200 new Freightliner Cascadia tractors. The first group of tractors will arrive in late August.

Tractors will be designed to create a working environment of the highest quality for IDC’s company drivers. The tractors will be equipped with the latest in “green” fuel efficient technology.

This state-of-the-art equipment will allow Interstate to provide consistently superior service using technology that will minimize the impact on our environment and maintain a competitive advantage for itself and for its customers.

About Interstate Distributor Co.

Headquartered in Tacoma, WA, Interstate Distributor is a leading provider of transportation services. Services include, local, regional and transcontinental coverage, specialized and refrigerated equipment, dedicated fleets, intermodal and logistics management services. With terminal and yard facilities located in all major markets throughout the United States, Western Canada and the Mexican border, IDC has grown to establish a national presence in the transportation industry. Established in 1933, IDC currently has more than 2,500 employees. For more information visit www.intd.com.

About McCoy Freightliner

McCoy Freightliner, headquartered in Portland, Oregon, is one of the leading truck dealerships in the Pacific Northwest. It provides sales, service and parts for the Freightliner, Western Star and Sprinter product lines. For information, visit www.mccoyftl.com.

